

Many Reasons for Optimism

If You Care about Something — Measure It

The City of Alexandria, VA, has a Pothole Patrol: every resident can report a pothole online or by calling a hotline. If they call in, the operator will tell them exactly when it will be filled.

Where Kids Don't Want a Break from School

If you forgot your math set for geometry class or your sketchbook and watercolors for art class, you don't need to hide at the back of the classroom or borrow supplies from your classmates—at least not if you are a student at Svetlina Primary & Middle School. A fully stocked supply cabinet at the entrance of the school invites students to help themselves to anything they need.

Bulgarians Making Us Proud

Petia, Miro, Ivan, and Misho—You Make Us Proud!

They educate our children, teach our teenagers how to be independent and successful at school and in life, build virtual bridges between parents and teachers, and make our society a little more tolerant every day. They are Bulgaria's true, unsung heroes.

Sofia's 51st Is a School of the Future

What happens when a school embraces technology and makes it central to teaching and learning? When teachers get out from behind the lectern and start mixing with the class? When students stop memorizing and start thinking? A school becomes a School of the Future—just like Elisaveta Bagryana School, Sofia's 51st.
